

Fifth International Symposium on New Frontiers in Human-Robot Interaction

- SCHEDULE -

Time	Day 1	Tuesday, April 5
8:30	Registration & Morning Refreshments (Dining Room, The Edge)
9:00	AISB Plenary Talk
10:00	Coffee Break (Dining Room, The Edge)
10:30-10:50	Welcome	Organizers
10:50-11:20	Session 1	Robot-stated limitations but not intentions promote user assistance Cameron et al. - #5
11:20-11:50		Help, Anyone? A User Study For Modeling Robotic Behavior To Mitigate Malfunctions With The Help Of The User Bajones et al. - #2
11:50-12:25		Discussion of Session 1
12:30-13:30	LUNCH (Bar Area, The Edge)
13:30-13:35	Keynote	Keynote Announcement
13:35-14:20		Keynote Talk: Amanda Sharkey, University of Sheffield Embracing the machine? Should there be any no-go areas for Human-Robot Interaction?
14:20-14:45		Keynote Discussion
14:45-15:05	Session 2	Towards learning through robotic interaction alone: the joint guided search task Depalma et al. - #8
15:05-15:25		A platform-independent robot control architecture for multiple therapeutic scenarios Cao et al. - #9
15:25-15:55		Discussion of Session 2
16:00-16:15	TEA BREAK (Dining Room, The Edge)

16:15-16:45	Session 3	What Communication Modalities Do Users Prefer in Real Time HRI? Novanda et al. - #4
16:45-17:05		User Experience of a Smart Factory Robot: Assembly line workers demand adaptive robots Weiss et al. - #3
16:45-17:30		Discussion of Session 3

Time	Day 2	Wednesday, April 6
8:30	Morning Refreshments (Dining Room, The Edge)
9:00	AISB Plenary Talk
10:00	Coffee Break (Dining Room, The Edge)
10:30-10:50	Session 4	A multilayer reactive system for robots interacting with children with autism Esteban et al. - #10
10:50-11:20		Physical extracurricular activities in educational child-robot interaction Davison et al. - #6
11:20-11:40		Impact of robot responsiveness and adult involvement on children's social behaviours in human-robot interaction Cameron et al. - #7
11:40-12:25	Panel	Panel Discussion on Child-Robot Interaction
12:25-12:30	Closing	Organizers
12:30-13:30	LUNCH (Bar Area, The Edge)	